Mayor Jacobs to Share Uplifting Veterans Day Message County Offices Closed Wednesday

Knoxville, Tennessee—Knox County Mayor Glenn Jacobs shares the following Veterans Day message.

“Any time we can remember and honor our veterans, it’s important that we do so,” said Mayor Jacobs. “We live in the Volunteer State and we should take time to appreciate those who volunteered to serve in each branch of our military. American liberty endures because generations of brave men and women have courageously stepped forward, making personal sacrifices, to protect it. Veterans Day is a tribute to all who served and a thank you for the freedoms we enjoy because they did.”

Please note Knox County government offices—including libraries, health department and convenience centers—will be closed on Wednesday, Nov. 11, in observance of Veterans Day. All offices will resume normal operations on Thursday, Nov. 12.

The Knox County Health Department will not be offering COVID-19 testing nor operating the phone bank while closed though epidemiology response activities will continue as normal.
